DEDICATION

This first yearbook of Miami Central High School is humbly dedicated to those who made a dream come true—"The Laboratory for Learning"—Miami Central High School.

We dedicate THE 1960 VANGUARD to the unsung group which has given so freely and so unselfishly, in spirit and intangible funds, to the planning, executing, building and maintenance of our fine institution . . . THE TAXPAYERS of our county and our community—we humbly and gratefully dedicate this, our first yearbook, in the sincere hope that we may, in some small way, show our appreciation for all that you have contributed to and for us since we began school in the first grade.

THE TAXPAYERS, whose consistent efforts on our behalf have given us the tools with which to build the future; THE TAXPAYERS, whose interest in that future has been the foundation of our true security, we dedicate this yearbook. May we fulfill your fondest dreams for us and may we some day continue your work and contribute as constructively for future generations when we are TAXPAYERS. It is thanks to you, THE TAXPAYERS, that we were able to launch ourselves with the motto:

"AD ASTRA PER ASPERA" —

To the stars by hard work and aspirations.

We are grateful!

"—built like a college campus in miniature with small clusters of classrooms, offices, and shops tied together by a single waffle-shaped concrete roof."

THOMAS F. LYNCH
Principal

During World War II, there was a tremendous vocal fervor that Americans were engaged in a destructive catastrophe to preserve certain freedoms. Today, American youngsters must become personally qualified to accept "freedom to think." Such a privilege presupposes the possession of knowledge fortified by sound reasoning.

In our present school atmosphere, every student has an opportunity to meet this challenge regardless of the courses pursued. Teachers, laboratories, equipment, instructional materials and a library have been provided for your advantage—now and later.

It has been my privilege to initiate this school. I am grateful for the efforts of every person at Miami Central High School during our "pioneer" year. Flavor your entire school activities with SINCERITY. Intangible characteristics of value will always surpass the mere acquisition of facts.

AIR CONDITIONING AND REFRIGERATION

The purpose of the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration shop is:

To help the learner become familiar with the refrigeration cycle.

To help the learner develop a thorough understanding of the theory of refrigeration.

To teach the learner the hazards of the trade, and to develop in him work habits that will automatically guard against these hazards.

To help the learner develop his ability to diagnose and solve such technical problems as expected of a competent serviceman.

OFFSET AND LETTERPRESS PRINTING

Kenneth Galbreath, William Fleak, and Ernest Bishop are three juniors who are able to operate a small offset press as well as make negatives and plates for offset printing.

Daniel Caton, Charles Davis, William Almack, Stephen Fletcher, Daniel Stroppa and Mr. Harris working at light table. Offset printing requires that negatives of original copy to be "stripped" and then aluminum plates are made which are then run on a press similar to the one pictured above.

Alexander Paish, Andrew Anderson, Kenneth Galbreath, and William Fleak are operating letterpress presses. Our shop is equipped with both offset and letterpress machines to give the students a well-balanced training for future printing employment.

DIESEL ENGINES

Diesel shop, a trade training program, was set up in the new comprehensive Miami Central High School September 8, 1959 with Mr. Josef Chapo, a licensed Diesel Engineer, as instructor.

Difficulties encountered were Diesel shop plant set-up for good instructional sequential lay-out, parts, benches and storage space, and needed facilities to do educational shop training as indicated in our Diesel shop course outline.

With students and shop instructor all understanding the true objective of the Diesel vocational training, the re-indoctrination of students to this new type program in a new school was found to be fairly simple. As our past graduating students have proved the worth of Diesel training both in industry and the armed forces our shop is proud to be chosen as one of the leaders in our new school.

Foy Stone, Mr. Josepr Chapo, Charles Penny.

Charles Russell, Mr. Josef Chapo, Stanley Gongaware, Larry Rytel.

Louis Capaforte, Mr. Josef Chapo, Raymond Stewart.

ARCHITECTURE

In the Architectural Laboratory the student is taught drafting and basic design as it pertains to the architectural profession. He is taught how to make working drawings for one and two story residences and small commercial buildings. The student is also taught elementary surveying as it pertains to building.

James A. Horton.

William Jones.

Mr. Richard Hourihan, Antonio Gutierrez.

ADVERTISING ARTS AND DESIGN

Mary Konicek.

The Advertising Art and Design Shop is engaged in teaching the knowledge and skills needed in the preparation of Advertising for Newspapers, Magazines and other media. The students are also instructed in the techniques followed in Designing Posters, lettering Art, and silk screen production of multi-color signs and posters.

Mr. Joseph Rosenbaum and Tommy Muscolino.

Mary Sue Wiederhold and Miguel Mendez.

ELECTRONICS LABORATORY

Machine Technology Objectives:

To develop within the student the correct habits and techniques of using the machine tools, testing, and other equipment in the laboratory.

To develop the student's initiative, judgment, and an attitude for accepting individual responsibility for work done in the laboratory.

To create a respect for the work done in the machine tool and allied industries and to create a desire for entrance into these industries.

To present a variety of experience and problems to the student in order to develop his ability to cope with practical problems he will encounter when he becomes employed in the machine or allied industries.

COSMETOLOGY

COSMETOLOGY refers to the scientific study and practice of beauty culture. Among the services offered by the cosmetology department are permanent waving, hair tinting and bleaching, facials, hair styling, and facial make-up.

LEARNING IN IDEAL SURROUNDINGS

The functional beauty of "The laboratory for learning" combines informality with usefulness. Students relax informally after lunch in one of the beautiful, sunlit, open patios outside the classroom area. All classrooms open onto central patios constructed under one roof to give a maximum of light and air. Relaxing after lunch is made pleasant by the numerous planting areas which contain ample seating amid eye-catching surroundings.
